

Attention All High School Parents and Students

Everything You Need to Better Prepare for College, is a two-hour, free workshop for parents of high school students. This program provides a comprehensive overview of the entire college preparation process from freshman to senior year in high school, including financial strategies that may save thousands off of even the most expensive colleges. Includes a calculation of the Expected Family Contribution, evaluation of a student's admissions profile, and a review of thousands of colleges, all provided for free as a community benefit program entirely funded with community contributions.

AMEDF is a not-for-profit organization. Our mission is to ensure college success by providing students and their families' quality guidance that is personalized, reliable, objective and affordable in order to make informed decisions about college. Our vision is that every student successfully enrolls at the college that best provides the knowledge to achieve their career aspirations and graduates in the shortest time possible at a cost the family can afford.
